

OUR PACIFIC ECOSYSTEM

The Pacific Ocean is the largest continuous marine habitat on the planet. It is home to a huge diversity of wildlife, including many migratory species.

OUR VISION

Our vision is for a healthy Pacific Ocean with thriving populations of all marine species, which will assure the aspirations of Pacific island peoples and protect their natural and cultural heritage.

Today there are many threats facing our Pacific ecosystem and the species that live here.

Research will help us to better understand the threats.

A management plan will help us prioritise what needs to be done most urgently in order to protect these species and the whole marine ecosystem.
